

TRANSFORMING FROM SUMMER TO FALL SAFETY TIPS

Fall is already here! And, winter is fast approaching. These tips will help your pets handle the climatic change.

FALL DANGERS

With a lot of leaves in your backyard, It can become extremely dangerous for your dogs if they consume them. Take adequate care of your dogs and make sure that they don't eat them.

SEAL PROOF DOORS AND WINDOWS

This will prevent the frost and cool breeze from entering the house. Make sure that your house is ventilated but proofed enough to not allow frost and snow.

KEEP CHEMICALS OUT OF REACH

Keep chemicals like anti-freeze and road salt out of reach. This can be a health hazard and also cause skin irritation for pets.

BE PET CAUTIOUS

End of summer is the time when you get winter ready. This means leaving your pet alone in the house. Install a camera and check it to find out if there are any behavioral change in them due to the climatic changes.

BE AWARE OF THE TEMPERATURE CHANGE

Cold weather can cause hypothermia and frostbite in pets. Install a pet monitor to track the temperature constantly. A pet temperature monitor is an essential device during summer and winter.
