

WHAT NOT TO FEED YOUR DOG ON THANKSGIVING

Waggle

COOKED BONES

Cooked bones can cause serious problems to their digestive system. When you cook bones, it changes the structure of it making it breakable. These splintered pieces can clog the esophagus. Also, there is no benefit of serving a cooked bone because they have zero nutritional value.

ONION, GARLIC & CHIVE

Onion, garlic and chives contains Thiosulphate, which is harmful for dogs. Garlic of the three is the most dangerous. Consumption of these can cause gastroenteritis or inflammation of the GI tract which can lead to breathlessness, diarrhea and vomiting.

UNCOOKED YEAST DOUGH

Uncooked dough tends to expands in the warm, moist environment. Stomach being a viable environment, the dough will bloat causing gastric-dilatation volvulus (GDV), or twisted stomach. It can also lead to ethanol poisoning.

GRAPES AND RAISINS

Grapes and Raisins form an integral part of your dessert. But, you need to be extra cautious when you prepare your food. They lead to acute kidney failure, oral ulcer, tremors, seizures and sometimes coma.
